Morris College

FOREWORD

Heritage is defined by Webster as being something transmitted by or acquired from a predecessor; a legacy; a tradition.

Heritage also means Africa, the motherland; a land rich with predecessors, legacies and traditions, and forefathers who struggled through slavery and wars. The word "forefathers" causes us to reflect memorably on persons such as Harriett Tubman to Rosa Parks; Martin Luther King, Jr. to Nelson Mandela, and Dr. Edward M. Brawley to Dr. Luns C. Richardson.

For Morris College, Heritage is a gift from dreamers of past generations. Upon graduation each graduate becomes an intricate part of this college's heritage. Starting with

- 1908, when the Educational and Missionary Convention of South Carolina established Morris College for the Christian and intellectual training of Negro youth.*
- 1911, a year in which the Certification of Incorporation was granted.*
- 1915, when the Bachelor of Arts degree was conferred on the first two graduates.*
- 1978, when Morris College received full accreditation from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.*

Finally, the Hornet Staff would like everyone to remember that much of our heritage lies within Morris College. Our president, and those before him, faculty, staff, students, alumni, family and friends have all been an integral part of our heritage. With their enlightenment, we have been driven to succeed. We invite you, the reader, to take time now to share in our heritage.

Revelation 21:4

And God will wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away."

*Free at last, free at last
I thank God I'm free at last.
Free at last, free at last
I thank God I'm free at last.*

*Way down yonder in the graveyard walk,
I thank God I'm free at last.
Me and my Jesus going meet and talk,
I thank God I'm free at last.*

*On-a my knees when the light pass by,
I thank God I'm free at last.
Thought my soul would arise and fly,
I thank God I'm free at last.*

*Some of these mornings bright and fair,
I thank God I'm free at last,
Going meet my Jesus in the middle of the air,
I thank God I'm free at last.*

MRS. ALETHA M.
UNDERWOOD

Educator, Church and Community Leader, Humanitarian

The home-going of Aletha Lewis on Sunday, May 3, 1992, brought sadness to the Morris College Family. For three years, Mrs. Lewis was the Director of the Student Development Center and Testing Coordinator of Morris College. In addition, she served as a member of the Women's Baptist Educational and Missionary Convention, a member of the Executive Board, the Director of the Christian Leadership Program, a member of the Publications Committee and Co-Director of the Dunbar-Gandy Retreat.

She passed on to the College Family a legacy of a lifelong thrust for learning, loving, helping, sharing and Christian living.

The College Family who were privileged to know her will ever appreciate the goodness of her heart, the richness of her soul and her love for mankind.

Morris College has more than justified the faith, the labors, and sacrifices of the founding fathers. The services it has rendered have been extensive and beyond value. In the early decades of its history, Morris College provided elementary and high school training for Negro youths at a time when such opportunities were meager or nonexistent in many communities.

Jr

Presidents'

Hundreds of Negro youth who otherwise never would have attended college have received at Morris College the benefits of higher education.

Morris College occupies a unique and significant position in the American social order. It is one of the few senior colleges built and operated solely under Negro auspices. As such, it represents a distinct contribution of the Negro to American education and society.

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1992

Many graduating seniors tell me that they hope that their degree from Morris College will help them to get a job, and I usually have to remind them that their degree from Morris College is not designed merely to help them get a job but to help them throughout life to get the job done. Our lives require us to confront many jobs of which the one that helps us to earn enough money in order to live is surely important. However, the average person will have pursued some seven different jobs and careers at some time in their life, and the purpose of your degree is to equip you with the communication skills, the computational skills, the organizational skills, the analytical skills and the social skills that will allow you successfully to get the job done regardless of which one of the several careers you happen to be pursuing at the moment.

Of course, you will be confronted throughout your life with other kinds of jobs that will also challenge your skills and abilities. There is the job of being a spouse, the job of being a parent, the job of being a church member, the job of being a citizen, the job of being a club member, and many other kinds of jobs that you may not yet have imagined. Each job will present its own special kind of challenge, but they will all require you to use the skills of communication, computation, organization, analysis, and social interaction that are the keys to getting the job done.

Accumulating a lot of knowledge and skills but failing to put them to work on behalf of a better business, a better school, a better family, a better church, a better club, a better country or a better anything represents a terrible waste of human resources and a terrible waste of educational resources that the college has expended to make you a more productive and capable person. Our college motto reminds us that we "Enter to Learn" and that we "Depart to Serve." Although your Morris College degree should help you get a job, I believe that it is more important that it help you to get the job done.

Sincerely,

Luns C. Richardson
President

Freshman Orientation Program

Intensive orientation activities are offered to new students during entry weeks of the fall and spring semesters. Students then continue their orientation within a comprehensive course, ED 100 Freshman Orientation. The pivotal concern is that student will be provided with a sound, successful, entry level academic growth experience. The course addresses adjustment strategies, orientation to campus life, test sophistication, career planning and orientation to computers.

To Learn

Rite of Passage

Traditional "Rite of Passage" activities designed to facilitate the role transferred from that of "Lofty high school seniors" to that of Freshman status. No hazing is permitted, and activities are intended to provide information about the contemporary college scene and issues of the larger community.

Freshman Talent Show

This show is presented by the Freshman Class at the end of freshman orientation week. This show gives freshmen the opportunity to demonstrate their talents.

Freshman Extravaganza

This show is designed to give gifted and talented students an opportunity to exercise, exhibit, and strengthen their talents and enhance their confidence.

Performances include an exhibition of talents in speech, drama, music, creative writing and fashions at a more advanced and cultural level.

Freshman Scholars' Bowl

This Bowl is designed to promote academic excellence by providing scholarly pursuits for high achieving students. It is patterned after the former General Electric College Bowl.

Our Heritage

A Candle In The Dark

TO: DR. LUNS C. RICHARDSON, Our President, Dr. Mary Vereen-Gordon, Academic Dean, Mrs. Eliza E. Black, Dean of Student Affairs, The Student Government Association, Members of the Trustee Board, Faculty and staff, Fellow students, Visiting queens, Ladies and Gentlemen.

GREETINGS!!!

It is in a spirit of great celebration that I stand before you on this occasion as MISS MORRIS COLLEGE — 1991-1992! This honor can only happen once in a lifetime, and I am indeed thrilled that it has happened to me.

As the reigning queen, I look forward to promoting the service ideal expressed in the motto of the College: "ENTER TO LEARN: DEPART TO SERVE".

However, let me assure you that mere words are inadequate to express the depth of my gratitude. To bear the title of MISS MORRIS COLLEGE is a gift, a most precious gift — a pearl of a great price!

The theme for this celebration "Our Heritage: A Candle in the Dark" is both fitting and appropriate. It will help us to identify with the trials and tribulations of our ancestors, their pride and accomplishments, their courage to speak out on important issues, to have a voice in policy-making, and above all — to become increasingly aware that BLACK IS INDEED BEAUTIFUL!

Tonight, I invite you to sense this excitement — to become a part of the vigor and conviction which tradition has brought and of which this College is a shining example.

Again, permit me to thank our President and the Morris College family, the coronation committee, my family and friends and all who helped to make this celebration possible. I wish to especially thank my church member, Mrs. Rachel Porter, who designed and tailored the Queen's gown and my lovely grandmother, Mrs. Virginia Howard, who by her Christian example, motivation, patience, encouragement and support has been my candle in the dark. And with the flame of this candle aglow, I now take my place in the procession of reigning queens of this great institution, whose name I shall ever praise and uphold to the very best of my talents, time, and ability.

Good evening. May God richly bless us everyone!

First Attendant

Samantha Adell Scott, a senior majoring in Recreation Administration, was born at Shaw Air Force Base (Sumter) on June 14, 1970. The third oldest in a family of four children, Samantha is the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Scott.

She is a 1988 graduate of the Westover Senior High School in Fayetteville, North Carolina, and an active member of the Bonne Dome Baptist Church in that city.

Samantha, an avid lover of sports, was an invaluable member of the volleyball, softball and basketball teams during her high school attendance.

Her achievements as a Morris College student include listings on the Honor Roll, Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, and a recipient of the Andrew Pollard Memorial Award for the best all-around female athlete.

Following her graduation from Morris College, Samantha's ambition is to earn the master's degree in her chosen profession and to engage in community services as a health worker.

Second Attendant

Wanda Reese was born in Richmond, Virginia, on December 15, 1970. She resides in Greenwood, South Carolina, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Reese, a brother and a sister.

Wanda is a 1989 graduate of Greenwood High School, and a member of the Flint Hill Baptist Church in that city.

A junior and mathematics major, Wanda has gained valuable experience through enrollment in the Cooperative Education Program here at Morris College.

Participation as a member of Cooperative Education Club, Parliamentarian of the Junior Class, Secretary of the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, and the 1991-1992 Student Representative on the Board of Trustees, are among the major honors accorded her. She is also the recipient of a scholarship from the United Negro College Fund.

Wanda's future ambition is to earn a master's degree in Computer Engineering and to secure employment in that profession.

Division of Business Administration

Each program in the Division of Business Administration focuses on the development of individual abilities and the marketable skills necessary to secure employment in business, industry, government or other areas. The Division is aware of society's need for persons in responsible positions to display professional, moral, and ethical behavior, and thus endeavors to provide competent instruction, leadership, and guidance toward these ends.

Our graduates find positions in almost every imaginable kind of business. The courses offered at Morris are kept up-to-date to meet the changing needs of employers and the diversity of interests of our students.

The Division of Business Administration requires all business majors to have work experience relevant to their area of interest. All students in their senior year spend a minimum of 10-20 hours per week for one semester as interns in the field. The internship requirements may be waived for off-campus cooperative education experience.

Division of Education

For more than eighty years Morris College graduates have served in the classrooms of South Carolina and the nation, dedicating themselves to helping children grow into responsible, well-trained citizens. Because of its rich heritage, the Division of Education is a very special part of Morris College, and our graduates often become dedicated teachers and administrators.

Professionalism is a hallmark of our graduates.

The Teacher Education Program promotes the development and growth of professional teachers by giving them a broad liberal and professional education as well as indepth specialization. Each student desiring to become a teacher must apply to the Division and must meet certain standards for admission. After a student is admitted, he or she works closely with an advisor to plan a program of study.

All students seeking teacher certification spend twelve weeks during the senior year as student teachers in public schools. The first week is spent in observation, and the remaining eleven weeks

Upward Bound

Mrs. Ruth Everson-Baker
Director of Upward Bound

Authorized by the Title IV of the amended Higher Education Act of 1985, the Upward Bound Program is designed to assist youths from low-income families who have academic potential, but who may be unable to enter, continue or resume a program of post secondary education. Three criterias govern student participation in the Upward Bound Program (1) financial or cultural eligibility (2) need for program activities (3) citizenship status.

Morris College Upward Bound Program seeks to maximize academic achievements and cultural opportunities of each student participating in its program.

Office of Career Planning,

Ms. Margaret Bailey
Director of Career Planning
Cooperative Education and Placement

Career Planning and Placement Service provides information about careers and aids students in securing summer employment and positions after graduation. The service is available during the student's college career as well as after graduation.

The Cooperative Education Program allows students to work in business or industry for two or more semesters, gaining experience and college credit while earning a salary. This program also offers career guidance, and participants realize the relationship of their classroom experience to the world of work.

Morris College's School of Religion presents Dr. Wyatt Tee Walker to the Sumter Community with its annual Opening Convocation services at 10:00 a.m. on Thursday, September 19, 1991.

Dr. Wyatt Tee Walker, Senior Pastor of Canaan Baptist Church of Christ, has been called, "Harlem Renaissance Man" by Jesse Jackson, because of his multiple gifts and varied careers.

Dr. Walker enjoys an enviable reputation as a preacher/pastor in the national community. He is a double-graduate of Virginia Union University (B.S., 1950; M. Div. 1953) and holds an earned doctorate from Colgate-Rochester Divinity School (1975) and several Honorary Doctoral Degrees. His graduate studies have taken him to the University of Ife in Nigeria and the University of Ghana in Legon.

An energetic businessman as well as pastor, Dr. Walker has developed more than 33 million dollars of affordable housing in Central Harlem under the aegis of the Canaan Church. He has served as Chairman of the Board of Freedom National Bank where he was a director for ten years. He was once the Pulpit Minister of the Abyssinian Baptist Church and spent a decade as urban Affairs Specialist to Nelson Rockefeller.

Since 1979, he has distinguished himself as a prolific author and essayist. "Spirits That Dwell In Deep Woods II," the second of a three-volume work, firmly establishes him as one of the nation's top authorities on the music of the African American church. His landmark work in the field, "Somebody's Calling My Name" is considered a classic in many quarters. For more than a decade, he has done research and compiled a collection which have borne fruit that must be considered pioneer work in the field of ethnomusicology. He has written eight (8) books. He is a composer of sacred music, as well as an exhibiting artist.

Dr. Walker has widely traveled abroad. He currently serves as a Commissioner in the Commission of the Program to Combat Racism of the World Council of Churches. He has been active in the international peace movement and the struggle against apartheid in South Africa and Namibia, in his capacity as Chair of the Religious Action Network of the American Committee of Africa.

Dr. Walker is a native of Brockton, Massachusetts. He is married to the former Theresa E. Edwards and they are proud parents of one daughter, Ann Patrice Powell; Three sons: Wyatt Tee, Jr., Robert Charles and Earl Maurice, and the newest member of the family, a grand-daughter, Christina Ann Powell, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Charles Powell.

School of Religion

Morris College School of Religion operates on the basic philosophy that the Black clergy and laity must be trained to serve the need of contemporary American society.

In its endeavor to implement the school's purpose and philosophy, programs have been designed to afford students the necessary discipline to prepare them for the ministry. The incoming student is accepted at his/her level with the understanding that he/she will make the necessary effort to work toward proficiency in his/her area of study. Special attention is given to the spoken word.

In an effort to promote and provide a maximum program that will meet the individual needs of all the students, the school offers the following:

- 1. A degree program geared to those preachers seeking the Bachelor's degree in either Theology or Divinity.*
- 2. A non-degree or certificate program offered through the Extension and Continuing Education Program which affords training to preachers and Christian workers in the local communities.*

The curriculum embraces classical subjects as exemplified in the traditional theological rootage as well contemporary subjects related by the new direction in clinical training.

Mid-Winter Banquet Rally

This year's Mid-Winter Banquet was graced with the presence of one of the greatest orators in the United States. Dr. Charles G. Adams, President of the National Baptist Progressive Convention, spoke for the annual affair on Friday, February 28, 1992 at 7 p.m. in the Garrick-Boykin Human Development Center.

Dr. Adams, a graduate of the University of Michigan and Harvard University, was a doctoral fellow in Union Theological Seminary in New York. He has been awarded nine honorary doctorates from prestigious colleges and universities around the country, including Morris College.

From 1962 to 1969, Dr. Adams served as Pastor of the historic Concord Baptist Church in Boston, Massachusetts. For the past Twenty-one years he has been pastor of Hartford Memorial Baptist Church in Detroit, Michigan.

Business/Careers

On March 18-20, 1992, Morris College hosted the annual welcome program and reception was held in the Daniels Dining Hall. Thursday's activities involved classroom presentations by visiting business executives and an assembly program at 10:00 a.m. Later Thursday evening, sessions in residence halls were "Black College Student and Their Role in the Black Community," "Women in the Workplace: Balancing Career, Home, and Family," "Your Future at Risk: AIDS, Alcohol, and Drugs," and "Broadening Horizons: Education Outside the Classroom."

The seminar ended on Friday, March 20, 1992 with more classroom presentations and a wrap-up sessions.

Science-In

The Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics conducted several activities during Science in Action Week, April 6-10, 1992. The Division sponsored a video titled "Science Careers" which was shown throughout the week. Posters of "Exceptional Black Scientists," "Black Stars in Orbit," and "Science for the Future" were on exhibit in the Wilson-Booker Science Building Library, and a "Health Fair" was presented on Thursday, April 9 from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. in the foyer of the Neal-Jones Auditorium.

The fair consisted of booths set up around the foyer with interactive activities that involved participants in healthy learning experiences. The following agencies participated: The Department of Mental Health, Clemson Extension, SSCADA, The American Lung Association, The American Cancer Society, The Department of Health and Environmental Control (DHEC), Tuomey Regional Medical Center, The Women's Auxiliary, The Office of Minority Health, and The YMCA.

On Thursday, April 9 at 10:00 a.m. in the Neal-Jones Auditorium, the speaker for the occasion was Dr. William Hawkins, Director of SUMMA of the Mathematical Association of America.

Dr. Hawkins obtained his Ph.D. and M.S. degrees in mathematics from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor and another M.S. degree in physics as well as a B.S. in mathematics from Howard University.

During the week, the Division held two receptions—one for Dr. Brenda Williams of the Excelsior Medical Clinic of Sumter and the other for Dr. William Hawkins of SUMMA.

Divisional and associate faculty members conducted experiments and demonstrations in areas of biology, chemistry, physics and mathematics.

The public was invited to participate in these events.

Dr. William A. Hawkins enlightens the audience about prominent black mathematicians.

The E.I.A.C. Tournament was held February 13-15 at the Garrick-Boykin Human Development Center. The three-day event carried with it many exciting activities.

The scheduled events started on Wednesday evening, February 12 with the Miss E.I.A.C. Pageant in the Neal-Jones Auditorium along with the Athletic Banquet in the Garrick-Boykin Human Development Center.

Thursday, February 13, the first round of conference play-off started at the Human Development Center. High Schools in the surrounding areas were admitted free with identification cards. Game time started at 1:00 p.m. and ended at 9:00 p.m.

Friday, February 14, the second round of conference play-off began at 2:00 p.m. until 8:00 p.m.

Saturday, February 15, the championship games were played at 1:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m. Later that evening, students from the different schools along with the Sumter Community settled down for an evening of great entertainment. First, there was a Greek Step Show that started the ball rolling. After this gallant event, there was a dance at the Sumter County Exhibition Center.

All in all, the tournament was a success. The 1992-93 E.I.A.C. Tournament will be hosted by Voorhees College, Denmark, South Carolina.

1992 Annual

The speaker for the occasion was William H. Gray, former U.S. congressman and current president and chief executive officer of the United Negro College Fund. Mr. Gray communicated to students the importance of giving service back to the community, the importance of family and continuing to become educated. "After you get all you can and can all you can, don't sit on your can," said Gray.

Gray shared with the audience his experiences as a young boy growing up in a society that promoted prejudice. By holding frequent conversations with his "professor grandma," on her "university called the front porch," Gray gained valuable insights and directives. It was his grandmother who revealed to him just how important he was. This poignant story communicated the importance of family.

Morris College graduates listened attentively as Mr. Gray told them, "Become a new force for justice in America so that one day we can come forth and be free." Gray reminded the class of 1992 that despite the efforts of many black entertainers and leaders, there remains much room for improvement. "We have been brought painfully aware that despite Oprah Winfrey, Bill Cosby, Michael Jordan, and Doug Wilder, when it comes to racial injustices we still have a long way to go," said Gray.

Gray, who holds 36 other honorary doctorate degrees from colleges and universities across the country, received his 37th from Morris College.

BRUZ CROWSON / The ITEM

A BACHELOR OF ARTS DIPLOMA, dated 1929, and old photographs are part of the exhibit of Morris College memorabilia on display at the Sumter County Museum.

An Educating History

Museum exhibit recognizes Morris College's interesting past

SOME OTHER ITEMS in the Morris collection are an old letterman's sweater, below, and a certificate from the college's athletic association dated 1948, at right.

aim of teaching high morals, intellectual ideals and the promotion of Christian principles.

The state of South Carolina granted a certificate of incorporation to Morris on April 12, 1911, and the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools granted full accreditation on Dec. 13, 1978.

Initially the college curriculum included programs in liberal arts, education for the certification of teachers and a theological program.

In 1915 bachelor of arts degrees were conferred on the college's first two graduates.

From its beginning, Morris College has been a center for training ministers and educators, many of whom achieved prominent status in the state and elsewhere. Morris is one of the few senior colleges constructed and operated solely under Negro auspices.

The museum exhibit is set up in the Sherman Smith Gallery in recognition of Black History Month. It runs through Sunday.

Most items featured in the display are on loan from the college and from Morris alumni.

The oldest artifact is a 1915-16 bulletin booklet noting that all students at that time were mandated to wear uniforms.

Among other items of interest are:

- the commencement program of the class of 1929
- photographs showing student life on campus
- portraits of college presidents ranging from the first, Dr. Edward M. Brawley

(1908-12) to the incumbent, Dr. Luns C. Richardson.

- a program from the 1930s meeting of the Woman's Baptist State Convention of South Carolina listing the 60 milestones of progress still in effect today

• programs of Baccalaureate services conducted in 1925 and 1949

- an alumni newsletter promoting the annual Thanksgiving Day rally in 1960

- assorted textbooks
- information on campus organizations and extra-curricular activities

• copies of the 1937 yearbook, The Morrisite, and the March, 1964, edition of The Hornet, campus newspaper

- the 1925 high school diploma and the 1929 bachelor of arts diploma earned by J.T. McCain who went on to become a college dean

- color photos of today's modern campus buildings

For the sports-minded the exhibit includes:

- athletic sweaters worn by basketball and football players, as well as certificates of merit awarded by the Morris College Athletic Association

- large photos of the 1925 baseball team and 1928 football team

Laura Hunter, Morris College's development director, worked with the museum's staff to coordinate exhibit features.

The museum, located at 122 N. Washington St., is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

By MIKE KARVELAS Special to The ITEM

A little-known fact about Morris College that's brought out by the current exhibit at the Sumter County Museum is that the predominantly black college on North Main Street once provided classes on the elementary, high school and college levels.

Another long-since forgotten fact is that the fee for tuition and board came to $16 a month at the college in 1931. And, for students who worked an hour a day on campus, the monthly charge was $14.

Founded in 1908 by the Baptist Educational and Missionary Convention of South Carolina "for the Christian and intellectual training of Negro youth," the college discontinued its elementary school in 1930. The high school program was discontinued in 1946.

Nearly 85 years ago, the college was opened to students of all faiths with the

CLOSING MESSAGE FROM THE EDITOR-IN- CHIEF

*Jeanette Taylor
Editor-In-Chief*

We would like to thank the president, Dr. Luns C. Richardson and all administrators, Delmar Printing and Publishing Company and Mr. William Morgan, our representative.

I, personally, like to send a special thanks to Mrs. Eliza E. Black, Mr. Robert Dickey, Mr. Charles Mathis and Ms. Laura Hunter, Mrs. Audrey Gibson-White and the 1992 Yearbook Staff for a job well done.

To the 1992 Yearbook Staff: During the semester, many times I wondered if this yearbook would ever get finished. But through our hard, persistent, and dedicated work, the job was done.

To the Students: We hope this is a book that you and others will enjoy for now and time to come. For us, this book will forever be a symbol of togetherness.

Again, the 1992 Yearbook Staff thanks you.

MAY YOU ALL REACH YOUR GOALS, NO MATTER HOW HIGH.
